Community Care Corps: 2019-2024

Community Care Corps is a national program that awards funds to organizations across the country to foster innovative local models providing volunteer nonmedical assistance to family caregivers, older adults, and persons with disabilities to maintain their independence in the community. Community Care Corps funds are intended to increase the number of innovative volunteer programs available at the local level. The Administrators evaluate the effectiveness of funded models and identify the conceptual approaches used in model development and implementation that improve outcomes, reduce barriers and are replicable. These approaches are compiled into a searchable web tool that individuals and organizations across the country may use to develop, implement and right size a local model for their community.

How do Community Care Corps models differ from the direct care workforce and other professionals providing services to help older adults and people with disabilities live independently in the community?

The Community Care Corps program is an opportunity for community organizations to use volunteers to address gaps in existing basic supports for family caregivers, older adults, and people with disabilities. Community Care Corps volunteers do not replace the important services provided by the direct care workforce and other professionals assisting individuals to live independently in the community. Community Care Corps volunteers do not provide medical assistance or professional health care services.
